

This half term the children have been studying the ancient civilisation of Benin.

Over the holiday I would like them for to create a 'double paged spread' in their homework books about one of the aspects of the Benin Kingdom.

- The creation myths of Benin
- The religious celebrations of Benin including the Kings Festival.
- The pantheon of Gods
- Trading and currency
- Benin houses and cities
- Benin food
- Benin music and art

Have fun and be creative. Use images, drawings, tables, fun facts and of course factual information!

Below are some examples of 'double page spreads' from other topics to give the children ideas. I will post some information, PowerPoints, web links and fact sheets on the school website with a link from the ClassDojo.
